D. W. Atwater's little daughter, who has just commenced to talk, was at a neighbors house Sunday afternoon and accidentally got a cup filled with copperas and child-like put the cup to her lips, but spilled more on her clothing than she drank. The little "tot" went into the room where several ladies were sitting and in her prattling way called attention to what she had done. The parents were badly frightened and the emetics at hand were given while Mr. Atwater looked for a doctor, but there were none in town at that hour. Fortunately the little girl did not get enough in her to do any damage.

Mrs. Richard Warnock died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. M. Fisher, on Hill street at one o'clock Tuesday morning, June 6th. Mrs. Warnock, who resided at Edenburg, has been sick for six months. Mrs. Warnock was a resident of Reynoldsville sixteen years ago. Her husband, familiarly known here as Dick Warnock, ran a small hotel on the corner above the Moore House. Three sons and three daughters mourn for the deceased. Mr. Warnock died sometime ago.

A DAY IN THE LEGISLATURE.

Disorder Predominated in the House last Wednesday.

We were always under the impression that it required a smart man to represent this Commonwealth in the Legislature, but after a day in the House we have concluded most any nincompoop can smoke, chew tobacco and swear just as systematically as some of the fellows who help make the laws of Pennsylvania. Some of the Representatives work for the best interest of their constituents. We discovered that William Orlando Smith, Jefferson county's Representative, is a worker and that he has considerable influence in the House. Mr. Smith is not noted for long and loud speeches, but he does his work quietly, which is the best way of gaining the desired end. One of the leading papers of Philadelphia and the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette count Smith in with the few workers. Jefferson county and her Representative were not strangers in the House.

The morning sessions open with prayer and during the two minute prayer was the longest time on Wednesday that there was sufficient order in the House so that a person could hear what was being said. The Speaker would bring the gavel down with great force to call the House to order and almost as soon as the echo of the gavel on the marble had been wafted on the breeze confusion reigned again. Paper balls were fired promiscuously around and it was only stopped by the speaker threatening to call the sergeant-at-arms to take charge of the parties who were engaged in such boyish tricks if it was not stopped. It was not an uncommon thing for a Representative to vote on a bill without knowing what he voted for and when informed what it was he would change his vote.

The members of the Senate are a trifle more dignified and keep better order. James G. Mitchell, the Senator from this district, was a prominent man in the Senate and he looked after the interests of the district. Mr. Mitchell certainly had considerable influence in the Senate. He was not much for speeches, but he worked. This district need not be ashamed of Senator Mitchell's work in the Senate.

The New Train.

The new passenger train between Reynoldsville and Clearfield made its first trip Monday. At present the train leaves here at 7:10 A. M., arrives at Clearfield at 9:15 A. M.; leaves there at 11:20 A. M. and arrives at Falls Creek at 120 P. M.; returning to Clearfield, leaves DuBois at 2:00 P. M., arrives at Clearfield at 3:45 P. M.; leaves there at 5:15 P. M., and arrives here at 7:30 P. M. It is expected that the noon train will soon be changed to run on to Reynoldsville, the terminus of the road. The fare to Falls Creek is 25 cts., DuBois 30 cts. and to Clearfield $1.15. The train starts from the Company store, but it will stop at Main street crossing for passengers. Engineer P. H. Hannan and conductor B. D. Lavery have charge of the train.

DuBois, Punxsutawney and Falls Creek have each been claiming their town to be the terminus of the road. The real terminus of the Clearfield and Mahoning road is at Jefferson line, but the train and crew stop here all night and start from Reynoldsville in the morning, consequently all the newspapers in the surrounding towns may claim their town the terminus of the road, but Reynoldsville has it "all the same." The editors of the DuBois Courier, Punxsutawney News and Falls Creek Herald may claim the terminus, but their readers and the public in general know that the editors are relieving themselves of a surplus of "boom" brag for their towns, which holds the quill drivers up for ridicule.

Lost Her Pocket Book.

Miss Laura Patterson, of Beechwoods, started to Reynoldsville last Saturday with her pocket book in her coat pocket and the coat was lying on her lap until she came to the tannery and then she put it on. When she got out of the buggy at Jos. S. Morrow's store the pocket book, which contained fifty-five dollars in cash and a deposit check for one hundred and twenty-five dollars, was gone. Miss Patterson went back as far as the tannery, where she thought she had the pocket book when the coat was put on, but the book was not found. There is no doubt but that some person knows where it is, and if they are honest, the money will be returned to the young lady when it is known who is the owner. The finder will be rewarded by leaving the pocket book and its contents at the STAR office. Miss Patterson is the daughter of a widow lady of the Beechwoods.

Enterprises that Help Our Town.

Our new national bank. It has long been a matter of wonder to strangers that a town of the size of Reynoldsville, with its business interests, did not have a national bank; and great credit is due to the projectors of this new enterprise in carrying it to completion. The stockholders are, with few exceptions, our fellow townsmen; all well known and standing high in the community. The officers are too well known to need any special mention here. It is sufficient to say that the business entrusted to their care will be faithfully and well attended to and in our advertising columns they solicit the public patronage.

Mr. Postlethwait is not only a good instructor in the school room, but he sets a good example for his pupils when he is on the streets.

THE INAUGURAL TRAIN.

OVER THE HILLS BEHIND THE IRON HORSE.

Excursionists Royally Received by the Citizens of Clearfield.

It was announced several weeks ago that when the Clearfield and Mahoning railroad, which connects Reynoldsville and the rich old town of Clearfield by rail, was completed that a free excursion train for business men of Reynoldsville and neighboring towns would be run over the road. Tuesday, June 6th, was selected as the day to run what was called by the railroad company, "the inaugural train." The invitations were issued last week after which a meeting was called and a committee of ten appointed to look after the decoration of cars, getting badges, &c. Tuesday morning presented anything but encouragement for pleasant weather, but the rain did not put sufficient damper on the excursionists to frighten many out of taking the trip to Clearfield. The train left here at 8:00 A. M. with four coaches, three of them nicely decorated. Large white banners were tacked onto the cars on which was painted, in red and green letters, the words, "Reynoldsville the leading town in Jefferson county." The delegation from this place wore pink badges with the words, "Reynoldsville the terminus of the C. & M. R'y." At DuBois four more coaches were attached to the train. The cars from there had on large white banners with the word "DuBois" in black letters on each car. The occupants had white badges pinned on their bosoms with the word "DuBois" on them. At DuBois Junction three more coaches were taken on with the Punxsutawney and Big Run delegates as occupants wearing Punxsutawney badges. Two of the cars had banners on in big letters, "Punxsutawney the metropolis of Jefferson county. Population 7051." The train left the Junction with eleven coaches and was an interesting sight to the farmers and their families. One old couple were sitting on a pile of ties near the road in the rain to see the train pass by and the expression on their faces, as the iron horses snorted by with the long train of coaches, was plain that they were not accustomed to such sights. It is a pretty farming country from the DuBois Junction to Repton and from there down the Anderson creek valley is one continuous stretch of barren mountains for over ten miles which have been robbed of the timber that once formed a dense forest. At Curwensville two more coaches were attached to the already long train. The road almost passes over the town on a high trestle. Near the tannery and other buildings the structure is made of iron so as to protect it from fire. The mason work at that point is among the finest and most substantial in the country. The train left Curwensville with a large representation of the business men of the above named towns, and the Keystone band of Reynoldsville, Excelsior band of DuBois, Punxsutawney and Curwensville bands. It would not be out of place to say right here, without any bragadoelo about it, that the Keystone was the best band at Clearfield that day and the Reynoldsville cars were the nicest decorated of any in the train. The scenery between Curwensville and Clearfield is beautiful.

Pulling out a drawhead before getting into the town proper delayed the excursionists about twenty minutes. The party were heartily welcomed by the firing of guns, ringing of bells and blowing steam whistles. A heavy rain pulled into town just as the excursionists got there, but notwithstanding the shower, the seven hundred visitors marched up Second street to the Court House and broke ranks and entered the large court room, filling it to its utmost capacity, many not being able to get seats and others not even getting into the room. Hon. John Patton was president of the meeting. He made a few remarks on taking the chair and Thos. H. Murray, Esq., delivered the address of welcome, and in an excellent address made the visitors believe they were indeed welcome to the town of Clearfield. Hon. S. B. Elliott, on behalf of the B. & P. R'y officials, responded. Mr. Elliott had hoped, even until the train reached Curwensville, to get some one else to represent the company, but finding no one to do so, he proved beyond dispute, by his neat speech, that he was capable of representing the company before judges, ex-judges, lawyers, physicians and business men of every calling. Mr. Elliott stated on behalf of the railroad that there was nothing influenced the company to build the road but business, and that the capital that built it had already stocked two railroads with coal and still the facilities were unequal to the requirements. The producers interested had no means of reaching Philadelphia, New York, New Jersey and New England without submitting to discriminating freight rates and were forced to seek a new outlet. The new road, said Mr. Elliott, intends to have no conflict with the people and will have none if the golden rule is observed.

Rev. Slattery not being able to be present, Lawyer C. Mitchell made the address for the Reynoldsville delegation. Mr. Mitchell was not informed until the train left Reynoldsville that he would be called upon to speak. A. J. Truitt and William M. Fairman spoke for Punxsutawney, R. D. Swoope for Curwensville, Wm. F. Stewart for Brookville, W. C. Arnold, L. M. Truxal and C. F. Burnhan for DuBois, and Hon. D. L. Krobs for Clearfield. The addresses by Fairman and Arnold were noted for the carelessness in which the speakers handled the truth, but as they are both legal lights and it is generally conceded that followers of that profession do not lack the provarciating qualifications little attention was paid to the "fibs" about their towns.

Clearfield is certainly a pretty place, and considering the fact that they have paved streets, electric lights, water works, fine large churches, good school building, manufacturing establishments, first-class stores, good hotels, a refined, culture, high toned and pleasant class of citizens, makes it a town attractive to visitors and is conducive of drawing people, who are looking for new location, in that direction. Free carriages were furnished for the use of visitors. The citizens of that town succeeded grandly in making it pleasant for all, which was highly appreciated by the visitors. On the other hand Clearfield may well feel proud of the delegation who visited their town, and we say without fear of contradiction that the town never before had as many visitors within its limits at one time who were as sober and behaved themselves as seemly as did the crowd on Tuesday. A drunken man was not to be found in the party. This may be accounted for as far as DuBois was concerned when it is known that they left home with the understanding, so we have been told, that whoever got drunk at Clearfield was to be put in the lock-up when they returned to DuBois.

The C. & M. R'y is controlled by the B. & P. R'y and it was through the kindness of the officials of that road that the train was run. Hon. S. B. Elliott, general manager of the Bell, Lewis & Yates C. M. Co., arranged the excursion and to him and the officers of the B. & P. R'y the business men of Reynoldsville are very grateful for the courtesies received.

Married at Buffalo.

Tuesday morning of last week a young man of Reynoldsville and a fair maiden of our town, to whom the young man had been acting as gallant, left here on the early train. We asked the young lady where she was going and for a minute she was embarrassed but finally said, "Up to DuBois." We asked if the young man, who was then buying tickets, was going along, and in answer she said, "Yes, part way." They did go to DuBois but only to remain a few hours, where two tickets were bought for Buffalo, N. Y. Rev. Robertson performed a ceremony in the park at Buffalo which united J. L. Fugate and Miss Jennie Motter in the bonds of matrimony. Although Reynoldsville people were expecting the courtship to end in marriage, yet they were surprised to hear that they had gone to Buffalo for that purpose. Miss Motter's parents knew she was to be married soon and had given their consent. The young couple have rented rooms and gone to house-keeping at Buffalo where Mr. Fugate has accepted a position as clerk in a store. Jennie was the only daughter and the home at Reynoldsville has been made lonely that a new home might be established at Buffalo, N. Y.

Board of Trade.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade was held in the Masonic hall last Friday evening. Hereafter the regular meeting, the first Friday of each month, will be held in that hall until further notice. Among the communications read was one from a large manufacturing establishment that is looking for a new location and also want to enlarge the plant. Of course it is generally expected that the various committees will do most all the work, yet the men who are interested in the town's future should all attend the monthly meeting and thus encourage the committees by their presence, thereby showing that they have not lost interest in the Board of Trade. A few men are working, while there are others who are indifferent in the matter.

Injured in the Mine.

George Lorenz, a miner, was so badly injured in the Big Soldier mine Monday morning that the doctors had no hopes of his recovery. A shot had been fired on Saturday which loosened up a portion of the roof and on Monday George was standing up, the vein is about six feet, tapping the roof to find where it was loose when nearly six hundred pounds fell upon him. His head was so badly crushed that a small portion of the skull had to be removed and the fragment raised off the brain. His nose and upper lip were cut in two, his chin badly cut up and his right thigh broken in two places. The man seems to be getting along nicely, all things considered.

Harry Kline, son of Benjamin Kline, and Harry Cathers, son of James Cathers, left Reynoldsville Monday morning for Portland, Oregon. They are both very young men yet and their only view seems to be to "go west and grow up with the country." They may think a number of times that "there is no place like home" before they become accustomed to the cold world's unfriendliness.

Nice new lamps, with Pittsburg burners, at Schuitze's.
